tary privates have to lose their sleep and wear guns, and other useful but uncomfortable ornaments at night time. But, when the Star comes out and gravely states, that Harry von Werthern and Cranstoun are putting up the collateral to furnish the to-come filibusters, it simply as the Scotch saying goes, "cows the cuddy."

Mr. W. R. Castle attributed to political affiliations under the republic the division of the Anglican Cathedral services between two congregations. The Bulletin tries to explain that this is not so and that Rev. Mackintosh's hearers are not purely sympathetic with the republic, and that Bishop Willie's congregation is not impelled to listen to him by reason of any royalist tendencies. But its explanation seems to make matters worse than even W. R. Castle's lying version gave publicity to.

The Bulletin states in two columns and a half on W. R. Castle's interview in Boston, "it would make one sick to believe that Mr. Castle should be capable of such shameless misrepresentation." The Bulletin editor must be very sick indeed, for he has taken up his two columns and a half in showing that that is just what Mr. W. R. Castle has been capable of—and not only been of capable but has exercised his capabilities to the fullest extent.

Why should a newspaper say that an accused person has a "weasel skin" when the charge is not relating to that offence—if it is one. Never mind whether the accused is only a Chinaman or not. He has his right to be treated as decently as the reporter would like to be if he were held up to that offence—or any other.

Does the Star think "the world is coming to an end" because W. R. Castle has been interviewed in Boston? Or does it think that is the last place on earth he should have been interviewed in?

W. N. Armstrong, passenger by the Belgic, has never yet explained how it is that cholera is ravaging Chinese ports when he said it wasn't. Is there then some symptoms of shame in him for his share in introducing our disaster? Can't he take up the cudgels once more to defend himself and his friend the doctor of the Belgic? Or has the official report from the Board of Health, "that it is believed to have been brought by the Belgic" closed his mouth and laid aside his versatile pen.

"At the recent meeting of the American Bar Association, Justice Brewer, of the Supreme Court of the United States, in the course of a very able address on the subject of judicial reform, said: 'In criminal cases there should be no appeal. I say it with reluctance, but the truth is that you can trust a jury to do justice to the accused with more safety than you can an appellate court to secure protection to the public by the speedy punishment of a criminal.'"—Star.

And it isn't so very long since that faction was howling for the abolition of jury trials altogether, or at least the Hawaiian jury system, and they forced a provision in the constitution making everyone ineligible as a juror unless he would take an oath—possibly against his conscience. More than ever does the old saying prove itself true, as it has since the days of Magna charta, "Trial by jury is the palladium of liberty."

Filibusters or the Maui man's cholera bug must have mingled up the Advertiser man's copy last night. He writes as follows:

"Some of the evening papers have had something approaching nervous prostration over Minister Castle's purported statements concerning '93 affairs. None are so blind as those who won't see. Facts are facts, notwithstanding they incur the displeasure of those who don't like to hear them.
